

Application to Request Technocash

I, _____ (full name) with registry ID/holding number _____, am writing to request that my dividend payments from now on be paid to my Technocash account.

My Technocash Account Number is: _ _ _ _ _

My Technocash Account Name is: _____

My Technocash online account is now my chosen account for all my dividend payments. Please ensure that all my dividend payments are sent to this account.

Technocash Pty Ltd has been operating since 2000 and is AFS licensed. They are under strict Australian Government financial regulations (AFSL No. 247299). Please see their website www.technocash.com for further information.

Technocash offers a portable, feature packed account, which can provide share registries with a simple, cost effective and workable method of dividend payment. The Technocash system has been designed to benefit both investors and company alike. Payment to a Technocash account means that dividends are always paid even if the investor changes their address or bank details.

I choose to use Technocash so that I can log into my account online, anytime, and check my full payment records. I can also update my contact and banking details in my Technocash account – so that you can always know where to reach me.

Thank you for your time, and thank you in advance for accepting my new method of payment with Technocash.

How The Share Registry Sends Dividend Payments To My Technocash Account

Sending money to my Technocash BillFold online account is simple. There are two methods of payment:

Method One

If your share registry owns a BillFold account, all they have to do is log into their BillFold account and transfer the dividend payment to my BillFold Account (details above).

Method Two

If your share registry does not own a BillFold account, all they have to do use internet banking to send the dividend payment to a Technocash bank account including in the reference field my Technocash account number for identification. It is most important that the account number is included as a priority in the reference field.

Technocash has a number of bank accounts, details of which are available at www.technocash.com. However, the recommended account is as follows:
